AMERICAN AVOCETS

The Pawnee National Grassland is located in northeast Colorado within Weld County. The 193,060 acres of public, native short grass prairie is interspersed with private pastures and cultivated fields. Buffalo Grass and Blue Grama are the predominant grasses on the Pawnee. With an average annual rainfall of 12-13 inches, even in wet years the grass will rarely reach your boot tops.

Many people are surprised to learn that the short-grass prairie supports great numbers of birds of many species, especially during the breeding season. A compilation of sightings by observers since 1962 has resulted in a list of 301 species.

We thank Dr. Ronald Ryder of Colorado State University and Joel Hurmence for compiling this list. Of the many observers contributing sightings, special thanks go to John Barber, Beth Dillon, Joe Himmel, and David Leatherman.
